Présentation de l'éditeur

Phyllis Galembo nous livre ses photographies des mascarades de l'Afrique de l'Ouest dont les costumes très variés sont inspirés des croyances tribales ancestrales ou des habits royaux de la vieille Europe. Un travail ethnographique fascinant. Biographie de l'auteur

Phyllis Galembo is Professor of Art at the University at Albany, State University of New York. Her photographs have been exhibited by museums including the American Museum of Natural History (New York), Fashion Institute of Technology (New York), George Eastman House (Rochester, NY), Kréyol Factory (Paris), Museum für Völkerkunde (Vienna), San Francisco Airport Museum, Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture (New York), Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History (Washington, DC), Tang Museum (Saratoga Springs, NY) and the Tokyo Metropolitan Museum of Photography.
